

Accepting applications for the 2022 Indigenous Pre-Cadet Training Program

November 18, 2021
Ottawa, Ontario

Are you an Indigenous person, aged 19 to 29, residing in the National Capital Region and interested in learning more about a career in policing with the RCMP? You may be eligible to take part in the Indigenous Pre-Cadet Training Program 2022 spring session.

Indigenous pre-cadet training at the RCMP Training Academy

The program includes a three-week training session at the RCMP Training Academy (Depot) in Regina, Saskatchewan.

You'll learn:

- How to work as part of a policing team
- About the Criminal Code and RCMP policy
- Physical fitness and drill
- Skills to help prepare you to apply to be a police officer

While at Depot, regular members are with the Indigenous cadets 24/7. They provide a full spectrum of support. We can accommodate any dietary restrictions.

To apply you must be:

- of Indigenous descent (First Nation, Métis or Inuit)
- aged 19 to 29
- a Canadian citizen
- a graduate of a Canadian secondary school (or equivalent)
- able to pass an enhanced reliability security check
- in good physical condition
- reside in the National Capital Region

Proof of vaccination might be required prior to attending the Indigenous pre-cadet training at Depot depending on the provincial and federal health authorities in place at that time.

What graduates have to say about the Indigenous Pre-Cadet Training Program

"Applying to the Aboriginal (Indigenous) Pre-Cadet Training Program is the best choice I've ever made." - Nathaniel McAdam, Saskatchewan

"I wasn't sure about a career with the RCMP. The Aboriginal (Indigenous) Pre-Cadet Training Program changed that for me. I loved every drill, fitness, and classroom session at Depot." - Hannah Millier, New Brunswick

"I'm excited to be able to one day become an RCMP officer and inspire more to join to show that we can make a difference in society." - Phoebe Niviaqsiag, Nunavut

National Division RCMP in Ottawa may provide an employment opportunity for the applicant following their training session at Depot.
